

Influencer Award

Caylie Klooster

Recipient of a 2021 Influencer award, Caylie Klooster is passionate about pursuing her own goals and helping others achieve theirs.

Caylie aims to contribute to the community through active ministry and volunteer work, and at age 17 is already taking on a leadership role. Besides helping at her church with Sunday school and worship teams, she volunteers at her school and has been involved with organizations such as Toastmasters International and the Association for Reformed Political Action. She also spends her summers volunteering at Camp Little Red in Bowden, Alberta, and Blue Bronna Wilderness Camp, based out of Longview, Alberta.

At Camp Little Red, Caylie helps children ages 12 and under learn archery and horsemanship, enjoy water sports and play field games while building friendships and learning about discipleship. Blue Bronna Wilderness Camp focuses on providing both kids and adults with a unique wilderness experience. Caylie trains campers in survival skills and works with other camp counsellors and staff to provide a safe and Christ-centred outdoor adventure for participants of all ages. She loves being a part of teaching kids about God while giving them an opportunity to develop their confidence and build relationships.

Caylie is getting ready to start her final year of high school. She loves band and drama classes, participating regularly in music festivals and drama competitions. She plans to attend NAIT's Culinary Arts program after she graduates.
