

Youth Influencer Award

Aida Barron

Aida Barron is a recipient of a 2022 Youth Influencer Award, and is known for her leadership, volunteerism and positivity.

While attending Leduc Composite High School, Aida was active on the school council. She advocated for equality and inclusion, helping the council build an inclusive environment for LGBTQ+ students. Aida is now studying history at university, and remains actively involved in the community.

Aida has been a volunteer with the Family Resource Network since 2020, assembling workshop kits and setting up for programs. Proving herself to be hard-working and eager to step up to a challenge, Aida has put in many hours supporting child, youth and family programs. She also works for the Boys and Girls Club, delivering programming to children ages six to 12. Aida takes the time to get to know each child individually, and is a role model that they look up to. She is quick to support community initiatives such as the Teen Takeover event and Play Learn Grow programming, and to help out former teachers at open houses for French immersion.

Aida has already had an impact on the people around her and continues to prove herself an influencer committed to positive change.